VETERANS' WEEK / REMEMBRANCE DAY LEARNING MATERIALS

Remembrance Day will soon be here. Veterans Affairs Canada's free 2024 Veterans' Week learning resources for students aged 5 to 18 are flying off the shelves, but some print products are still available. Visit the online ordering site now to request hardcopies for your class at no charge. Digital versions of all of these materials – and much more – are also available on online.

Recognizing Indigenous military service

Chief Joseph Dreaver was from the Mistawasis First Nation in Saskatchewan. He was a Veteran of both the First and Second World Wars and was a strong community leader. The new Veteran recognition card honouring his legacy features a striking painting of this brave Cree soldier by Indigenous artist Mike Holden. Order free class packs for your students to share their personal thanks with Veterans. You can also use the new lesson plan to teach youth about Chief Dreaver and the long tradition of Indigenous military service across Canada's history.

Other special Veterans' Week resources

Don't forget to check out the new animated video for elementary-aged students featuring the Remembrance Club animals. In under four minutes, cute and engaging characters introduce important topics like Veterans, peacekeeping, war, memorials and giving our thanks. The video can be used alongside the Tales of Animals in War or Take Time to Remember print and online publications. It also makes a great introduction for any remembrance event or activity.
